CHARLESTON S. C.

[Extract of a letter from Charleston.] At first sight, a stranger is not pleased with Charleston. Such an opinion we had heard expressed, and our observation and experi- Direct from the Island of Sombrero. This is the ence proved it true. The buildings have a rusty and somewhat sombre appearence.-The dwelling houses especially are destitute and warranted to contain 8 per ct. of Ammon of that cheerful and home-like aspect which and 45 per ct. Soluble Bone Phosphates. Also, render them attractive to a mere passer by .-Generally they are situated close to the pavement, without shade trees or shrubbery to relieve the naked walls. There are exceptions, however, to this general rule, and some of the residences and public-buildings would be creditable and ornamental to any city .-Especially is this the case with the Orphan | 200 Asylum. It is a noble edifice, well worthy of its liberal founders and benefactors. A more complete building, in all its appointments, I have never seen. A fire alarm bell, weighing over six thousand pounds, cast by the Mencely's, hangs in the cupola, and a sentinel, in uniform, stands there watching the city, relieved once in three hours, and erpool. All filed 10 to the ton. the city, relieved once in three hours, and when by chance a fire is discovered, the huge bell is struck, as many times as indicates the number of the Ward in which the fire is seen; and its tones, reaching to every part of the city, inform the inhabitants of the progress of the fire, and in what direction to find it. We ascended to the top of the Cupola where we enjoyed a magnificent view of the city and bay, and the shipping in the harbor. I cannot undertake to give a full description of the Orphan Asylum. It is an object of the Orphan Asylum. It is an object of "American Farmer," with which until within a few great interest, and I would advise strangers going to the city to visit that noble institution.

The-I was about to say unfortunate, but I must say fortunate-orphan boys, will politely conduct the visitor through the various apartments. I believe Wednesday is the regular reception day, but strangers will not be denied admittance at any conven-

Another object of attraction to strangers is the Artesian Well. The water boils up from more than twelve hundred feet below the surface, and as it comes from the numerous spouts placed about the well for the accommodation of the public, its temperature is nearly the same as fresh drawn milk .-People as they pass stop and take a drink of the pure and sparkling beverage. After taking a glass, and while standing and surthe enclosure one of whom held in her hand a tiny cup of white china lined with gold. They approached the fountain and, as if it were an every day occurrence, took a draught from the refreshing stream. All classes have access to these waters of life; and a large trough, on Meeting Street, is contantly overflowing with this element, where the horse can refresh himself, and the beasts of burden regale themselves when "tired nature" needs

A second well is now being bored, about forty feet from the first. A small steam Engine is established near, by which the boring is done. During the few moments I stood witnessing the operation, there were 8 or 10 poles, 27 ft. in length and about 4 in diameter, drawn from the depths below .-The Engineer informed me that some eight or ten more were to come. These poles are ironed at the ends in such a way as to be firmly locked into each other, and as they are drawn out they are unlocked by means of a wrench, detached and laid aside in a perpendicular position in the corners of the curb which surrounds the well.

This Artesian well constitutes another object of interest to strangers visiting this

I was particularly pleased with the good order which prevailed throughout the streets and lanes of the city. And when I saw un-iformed policeman walking about by day and by night, looking as though they were determined to do their duty, this general good order was accounted for. Indeed better police regulations than Charleston has, I have never seen; and I have visited most of the principal cities of the Union, from Boston to New Orleans.

The "Tidal drains" which run through the city from river to river, succeed admirably in floating off the filth of the city into the bay; thence into the Atlantic. The streets are kept in a cleanly condition, and doubt less the unusually good health of the city during the season, and this time, is one of the results of this improvement.

But above all there are Churches here, and Christians too; and Charleston seems not be a whit behind her sister cities in this respect.

Spending but one sabbath here I could, of course, visit but few of the churches. Two of those which I did visit presented to the eye an antique appearance, and were, I for sale by WM. H. FOWLE & SON, should judge, built in the middle of the Eighteenth Century, or at some period prior to the Nineteenth. There seems to be no disposition on the part of the membership of the churches, to change their antiquated appearance, probably prefering that they should remain as they have been from the beginning, as relics of the past.

A RETORT DIRECT .- A clergyman from a neighboring town and one of his elderly parishioners were walking home from church one icy day last winter, when the old gentleman slipped and fell flat on his back. The minister, looking at him a moment, and being assured he was not much hurt, said to "Friend, sinners stand on slippery places." The old gentleman looked up, as if to assure himself of the fact and said, "I see they do; but I can't .- Providence Post.

Zer To Consumptives .- The advertiser having been restored to health in a few weeks, by very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe Lung Affection, and that dread disease, Consumption,—is anxious to make known to his fellow-sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge,) with directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure Cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, dec. The only object of the advertiser in sending the prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will con them nothing, and may prove a blessing. Parties wishing the prescription will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILSON,
